Lesbian Human Rights on Global Scenes: InterseXXions and oppositions

Anick Druelle, Institute for Women's Studies, Lancaster University.

Presented at Gender and Power in the New Europe, the 5th European Feminist Research Conference
August 20-24, 2003, Lund University, Sweden

After more than 30 years of actions on the national and global scenes in order to have women and lesbians rights recognized, the issue of sexual orientation has been debated within the United Nations during different conferences and commissions in the past 5 years. This is largely due to the work done by gay, lesbian and feminist groups within the EU and other states member of the UN Economic Commission for Europe such as Canada and the United States. In this paper, I want to look at the ideas and actions promoted by lesbians authors and activists on the issue of lesbian human rights on global scenes (global Europe, global Empire). Are they suggesting means to assume interseXXions between gender, ethnicity, class, disability, sexualities and generations and paths towards greater solidarity encompassing some of these intersectionnalities? What are the oppositions that these ideas and actions encounter on those global scenes?